

Neocraft guide

Welcome! You have just joined Neocraft.

There are many unspoken rules that exist that you will learn in this guide. But first, lets start off with the basics:

CONTROLS:

WASD to move

SHIFT to toggle sprint

SPACE to jump

R to respawn

T to chat

Right Click to place a block

Left Click to break a block

ESC to pause

COMMANDS:

/tp: you can use /tp to teleport to your friends and their builds. To teleport to a player, type /tp <player's name> or if you want, just type the first two characters of their name. You can also type in coordinates. To go to a specific location on the map, just type: /tp <x coordinate> <y coordinate> <z coordinate>. If you ever need help finding your coordinates, they are ordered X, Y, Z at the top left of the screen.

/list: this command simply lists players. When you type this command in chat, it will list all players in the game, seperated by commas.

/spawn: /spawn teleports you to the middle of the old map (64, 16, 64)

INTRODUCTION:

Now that you are familiar with the commands and controls, read an introduction that Andrew wrote:

Neocraft is a web lounge where you can build, explore, and chat. The world is a 256×256×32 map built in pure JavaScript using Socket.io & WebGL. It's not Minecraft. Neocraft is built by Andrew

Now we can move on to the next section:

Map guide

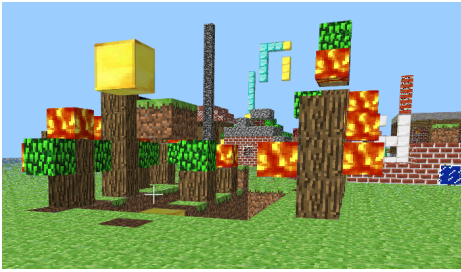

In the map, there are many structures and landmarks that will help you understand the world's layout and help you get around faster. This section will teach you the structures and landmarks:

1. Parkour park:

Parkour park is the range of parkour maps that goes from (128, 16, 1) to (97, 16, 91)

- Do not grief

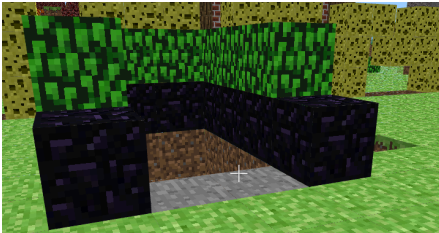

- Please respect the owners/creators of the parkour
- Complete the parkours for fun

2. Metro:

Metro is a set of underground tunnels to get around the map faster. The stations are located at: (26, 16, 83) and (178, 16, 99)

- Sprint for max efficiency
- Do not dig holes
- Enter through the stations

3. The gutter:

The gutter is a landmark located at the edge of the map. It serves no purpose as of now and is just an attraction. It is located at (255, 16, 1)

- Look around
- Do not fall in the holes
